

to give array code for python	Sure! Here's a simple way of creating an array in Python using list(). ```python # Create empty List (Array) with different types elements like integer, string and boolean data type my_list = [] # or my_array1 = [None]*50 , for initializing the size to specific values. For example: NoneType if we declare list of unknown length ie dynamic programming array . But in real life scenario there are fixed amount elements, hence it's better option is using Python built-in List type print(my_list) # It will print a blank [] as our initial myList. This means that at this point the Array/List has no element and its length also 0 . We can use append() method to add an item, or even remove items from it etc., using Python's built-in list methods ``` In python you have a simple way of declaring array by just defining your desired data type followed up with []. For example: int_array = [] Declares and initializes the List/Array for Integer numbers. Then, use append() method to add items into this Int Array such as `int_array.append(4)` .

why any flight is not fly over the taj mahal	The Taj Mahal is located in Agra, India, and is surrounded by a restricted airspace. The main reasons why no commercial flights are allowed to fly directly over the Taj Mahal include: 1. Security concerns: The area around the monument has been designated as a protected zone due to its historical and cultural significance. 2. Air traffic control restrictions: The Indian government has implemented strict air traffic control measures to ensure safe and efficient flight operations, which may not allow flights to fly directly over the Taj Mahal. 3. Environmental concerns: Some flights may be restricted to minimize noise pollution and visual impact on the monument. Commercial flights usually follow established air routes or patterns that avoid flying directly over sensitive areas like national monuments.

to give information about iran and israil wor	Here's a brief overview: Iran-Israel Conflict The conflict between Iran and Israel is complex and multifaceted. Key issues include: Islamic Republic of Iran: A Shia-majority country with close ties to Hezbollah in Lebanon and Hamas in Gaza. State of Israel: A Jewish-majority state that views Iran as a threat due to its nuclear program and support for terrorist groups. Nuclear Program: Iran's uranium enrichment activities have raised concerns among the international community, including Israel, which sees them as a potential existential threat. Support for Terrorism: Iran has provided military aid and funding to various terrorist groups, such as Hezbollah and Hamas, which Israel views as legitimate security threats. The conflict has led to numerous tensions, crises, and military operations between the two countries, including: 2006 Lebanon War: Israel's response to Hezbollah's rocket attacks. 2015 Iranian nuclear deal: The Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA), which limited Iran's nuclear program in exchange for sanctions relief. 2019-2020 Middle East tensions: Escalations over Iran's missile development and support for proxy forces. The conflict is ongoing, with both sides maintaining a fragile balance of power and mutual distrust.
